ESKIMOS WATCH PLANE CRASH RUNNER TELLS TALE OF TRAGEDY

AMERICA SHOCKED BY HEROES' DEATH

(By FRANK DAUGHERTY)

(By Telegraph. Copyright, Telegraphic Message Ordinance, 1894. Received, Aug. 17, 8 a.m.)

Point Barrow, Aug. 16.
Will Rogers, America's "Good-will Ambassador," ex-cowboy, humorist and actor, and Wiley Post, one-eyed Indian pilot, whose adventures in the air have thrilled news readers for years, died on their way to Moscow, from Seattle, to-day. Their machine crashed from an altitude of fifty feet, 15 miles south of this point, northernmost portion of Alaska.

They had been lost in the fog, but had safely landed at an Eskimo village, named Walkpi. Post tinkered with his engine there, for it had been misfiring just before they landed.

For three hours they rested with the villagers, and shared a meal with them, and then, although the fog had thickened, and visibility was exceedingly poor, they asked the way to Point Barrow, and entered the plane.

When they took off from the narrow sheet of water on which they had landed, the motor was still misfiring. They climbed quickly, and attempted a right bank. The plane turned nose down and crashed in a second, diving into two feet of water and smashing against the frozen tundra below. The engine was driven back into the cockpit, mangled Post.

Rogers was thrown clear of the wreck, but must have died instantly. Only the Eskimos saw the plane's end.

A native runner took the news to Point Barrow.

RUSH TO SCENE

A Signal Corps sergeant, Morgan, and myself took a power whale-boat and rushed to the scene of the crash. We brought the bodies to Point Barrow.

We found that the gasoline which the plane had scattered over the tundra had not commenced to burn, but it had not harmed the bodies or further demolished the plane, whose right wing was torn completely off.

As we placed the bodies in the whale-boat a piece of paper fell from Rogers' pocket. It was a folded photograph of his daughter Mary.

We had to tear the plane apart to remove Post's body, which was crushed and under water.—United Press.

BODIES RECOVERED

Seattle, Aug. 16.
The Signal Corps wireless operator stationed here has notified his headquarters that he has recovered the bodies of Wiley Post and Will Rogers from the wreckage of the Moscow-bound plane which crashed near Point Barrow this morning.

Inspectors of the Department of Commerce have been despatched to the scene.

Post was not using his famous Winnie Mae, the machine in which he has attempted and broken so many records, but a new Lockheed Orion, fitted with pontoons. He was attempting to fly from Seattle to Alaska, across the Behring Sea, and so to Moscow.

IN SMALL RIVER

It was learned from native eye-witnesses of the crash that Post and Rogers were taking off from a small river, their engine misfired while they were banking and the plane got out of control fifty feet above the water. When they crashed the right wing was torn off the machine and the engine was forced back through the body of the plane, crushing Post.—Reuter.

CLIPPER'S FLIGHT

New York, Aug. 16.
The flying Clipper left Midway Island at 5:21 p.m. (G.M.T.).—Reuter.

Financial returns show that the Colony's credit balance at the end of May was $12,989,472.02, compared with $13,463,080 at the end of April.

Britain To Call Naval Conference

INFORMAL TALKS
IN OCTOBER

SEPARATE ACCORDS

London, Aug. 17.

It is reliably learned that, within the next fortnight, Britain will formally notify the United States, Japan, France and Italy that it is proposing an informal naval conference in October to pave the way to a formal conference.

Britain is said to be anxious to hasten the preparation of the latter conference and hopes to conclude separate conventions with France, Italy and Soviet Russia early in October, after which it is hoped to broaden the conventions to a bi-lateral basis.

It is understood that Britain wishes the United States to call the second and formal conference. However, it is reliably understood that the Powers concerned regard London, and not Washington, as the most favourable venue.—United Press.

NO REPLIES

London, Aug. 16.

It is understood that the British Government communicated some weeks ago to other signatories of the Washington and London Naval Treaties—the United States, Japan, France and Italy—the outline of its views and aims with regard to speeding up of preparations for a five-Power Naval Conference, which is required to be held under the Washington Naval Treaty before the end of the year.

Government proposals that bi-lateral conversations should be pushed forward and concluded as soon as possible and that thereafter it might be possible to widen the scope of conversations which might become multi-lateral.

It suggested these conversations might be held in London in October. No replies to these suggestions have yet been received and no invitations to such a preliminary conference will be issued until it is clear whether it could usefully meet as proposed. Under Washington Treaty it falls to the United States Government to issue invitations for a full formal conference provided for in Treaty, but the view is held that London might prove a convenient centre for the meeting.—British Wireless.

was probably the most widely known citizen in the United States, and was certainly the best loved. He made fun for all mankind, with never an intentional sting. He was kind, generous and patriotic.

Senator Robinson added: "All the nation mourns these two great citizens; they were both representative of the highest types of manhood."

Curiously enough, the news of Post's death coincided with the presentation of a Bill in the Senate to pay him $25,000, which was the nation's purchase price for the plane, Winnie Mae, in which he flew around the world. The plane will be presented to the Smithsonian Institute's collection of historic planes.

The Bill passed the Senate and will now go forward to the House of Representatives.—Reuter.

Persecuted Churchmen

GERMAN APPEAL TO BRITAIN

BRUTALITY IN PRISON CAMP

(Special to "Telegraph")

London, Aug. 16.

Allegations of persecution of members of the German Orthodox Church are made in an appeal to the Archbishop of Canterbury by friends of the Orthodox community.

The appeal declares that Dr. Schmucker, Orthodox Metropolitan, who was arrested in 1933, was taken to the Wurttemberg concentration camp, where it is alleged he was kicked and otherwise ill-treated, being forced to work in freezing weather, clad only in trousers and shirt.

When Dr. Schmucker was finally released, he had to stay in bed for a month.

Dr. Schmucker and another Orthodox Church member named Haeblerle subsequently sued the commander of the camp, but they were re-arrested and have not yet been released.—Reuter Special.

Jews Await New Purge

Berlin, Aug. 16.

The Jews of Germany, and particularly of Berlin, are awaiting in terror the commencement of a new wave of anti-Jewish purge.

After seeing the effect of Julius Streicher's first speech in a campaign against them, the Jews are much concerned. Immediately he ceased speaking the crowd of 25,000 persons threw itself upon a Jewish business establishment and wrecked it. The police only prevented worse outrages with difficulty.—United Press.

S'HA! EXCHANGE MARKET

CURRENCY RUMOURS AFLOAT

Shanghai, Aug. 17.

Opening rates on the Exchange Market to-day were: U.S. dollars 36 1/2, Sterling 1/6-13/16, Gold Bars $35-60.

The market ended after a firm opening due to rumours that a currency announcement is imminent following the Kulling meeting.

The Central Bank started selling exchange but stopped soon after the opening.

Speculators are now generally inactive.—United Press.

OFF TO AFRICA

Rome, Aug. 16.

Signor Mussolini's son-in-law, Count Ciano, has been transferred to the Air Squadron for service in East Africa, as from August 24. He will, however, retain his post as Minister for Press Propaganda.—Reuter.

Report Of Murder Is Confirmed

BRITISH ATTACHE'S OFFICE ACTS

JONES' BODY DISCOVERED

Peiping, Aug. 17.
Captain Millar, of the British Military Attache's office, has telephoned from Kalgan that the Provincial authorities have received a telegram from Paochang, in the Paochang area, to the effect that the body of a foreigner, riddled with bullets, has been found thirty miles south of Paochang.

This position is right in the area where the bandits have been moving with their captive, Mr. Gareth Jones and as it is known that no other white man is in that area, the report forms conclusive confirmation that the victim of the outrage is the British journalist.

It is expected that Captain Millar and Dr. Mueller will proceed to Paochang to-morrow for the purpose of identifying the body, which has arrived there.—Reuter.

UNEMPLOYED SCHEME

PHYSICAL CULTURE TRAINING

London, Aug. 16.
A number of unemployed men, drawn from specially depressed areas of North-East and North-West England, Middleland, Scotland and South Wales, have been undergoing a four months' course of training in South London as instructors in Physical Culture, under an experimental scheme conducted with the approval and financial assistance of the Ministry of Labour.

It is intended to employ the men, when proficient, as leaders at junior instructional centres and elsewhere. In addition to walking six miles each day between the hostel and the gymnasium, the men exercise actively for five hours in three sessions.

Besides ordinary physical training the course includes boxing, judo and gymnastics. Twice weekly the men attend lectures on anatomy, hygiene, physiology, and elementary psychology. The men, whose ages range from 19 to 31, include unemployed miners, dockyard labourers, mechanics, draughtsmen, etc.—British Wireless.

"LET THEM WONDER"

Chicago, Aug. 16.

The United Press was told to-day that when Mr. Herbert Hoover was informed that the Democratic party was wondering whether he intended to stand as a candidate for the Presidency he smilingly replied, "Let them wonder!"—United Press.

ITALY URGED TO STATE CLAIMS

ACCORD OTHERWISE UNOBTAINABLE

AFRICA CRISIS NEARER SOLUTION

Paris, Aug. 16.

The primary aim of the British and French delegates to the three-power conference here is to discover Italy's precise and minimum claims upon Ethiopia. Unless this can be accomplished no real progress can be made towards a settlement of the Italo-Abyssinian controversy, since the Emperor of Abyssinia cannot very well be expected to state the maximum he will offer.

The British and French Governments have been trying vainly since May to obtain this information from Italy.

Baron Aloisi, Italian chief delegate to the conference, despite a long telephone conversation with Rome after lunch to-day, had not "delivered the goods," a spokesman said at the afternoon meeting and the conversation had to be adjourned until tomorrow, with the gap slightly narrowed but far from bridged.

PROBING SILVER PURCHASES

SPECIAL SENATE INQUIRY

TAX BILL PROBLEM

Washington, Aug. 16.
The Senate has approved of Senator Key Pittman's resolution authorising an investigation of the working of the Silver Purchase Act.

Senator Pittman has announced that the hearings of the special committee appointed for the purpose will begin immediately after the adjournment of Congress.

Meanwhile, the House of Representatives has disagreed with the Senate amendments to the Tax Bill, which will therefore go to conference for adjustment of the differences.

The House, however, shouted down a motion to instruct its conference to accept the Senate amendment repealing sections of the Silver Purchase Act in respect of the fifty per cent. profits tax.—Reuter.

EARLY ADJOURNMENT

Washington, Aug. 16.
The Wealth Tax Bill is now in the hands of the pro-Administration conferees.

It is generally expected that Congress will adjourn next week. Senator Joseph Robinson of Arkansas forecasting Thursday, or earlier.

The Banking Bill, the Wheeler-Rayburn and the Gold Clause suit amendments are still being held in conference.

It is also expected that the amendments to the Tax Bill, firstly for the prohibiting of issuance of tax-exempt Federal securities and, secondly, for the repeal of the silver profits tax, which is a feature of the Silver Act, will be eliminated by the conference.—United Press.

LOCAL DOLLAR RISES

BUT MARKET VERY QUIET

The Hongkong dollar rose 1/8th this morning to 1s. 11 1/2d. The market is very quiet, with sellers at 2s. 0d. and buyers at 2s. 0 1/2d.

In London, silver prices were unchanged spot yesterday and 1/16th up forward. Speculators sold and America bought, the market being steady.

LITTLE ACCOMPLISHED

Paris, Aug. 16.

Apart from a statement by M. Pierre Laval, the French Prime Minister, that documents concerning the "relations" of Britain, France and Italy with Ethiopia had been examined at the tripartite conference here, nothing has as yet transpired with regard to a settlement of the delicate African crisis.

Nevertheless, it is felt in well-informed circles that this meeting of all the delegates was a favourable sign in itself, indicating that the powers had something tangible to work on.

Although to-day's talk was described as being chiefly a prise de contact not justifying any deduction with regard to future developments, it was stated in authoritative quarters that the impressions taken from to-day's meeting were "not entirely unfavourable."—Reuter Special.

DIAMOND REEF

Rome, Aug. 16.

A diamond reef is said to have been discovered by an Italian captain in the Army 120 miles from the Abyssinian frontier between Lgh Ferrandi and Buddiadi, according to a message from Mogadiscio, Italian Somaliland, published in the Giornale d'Italia.

Meanwhile, Italy has initiated an agreement with Poland, whereby she will exchange a million tons of Polish coal a year for citrus fruits and other Italian exports.—Reuter Special.

BRIEF STATEMENT

The opening three-power talks continued until 7.45 p.m. when M. Laval emerged from the conference room at the Quai d'Orsay and beckoned the crowd of waiting journalists, and while Mr. Eden and Baron Aloisi stood beside him he read the statement they had agreed upon.

He said they had examined diplomatic documents concerning the relations of the three Governments with Ethiopia and at a subsequent meeting they would seek some means of settling peacefully the Italo-Abyssinian dispute.—Reuter.

SOME PROGRESS

London, Aug. 16.

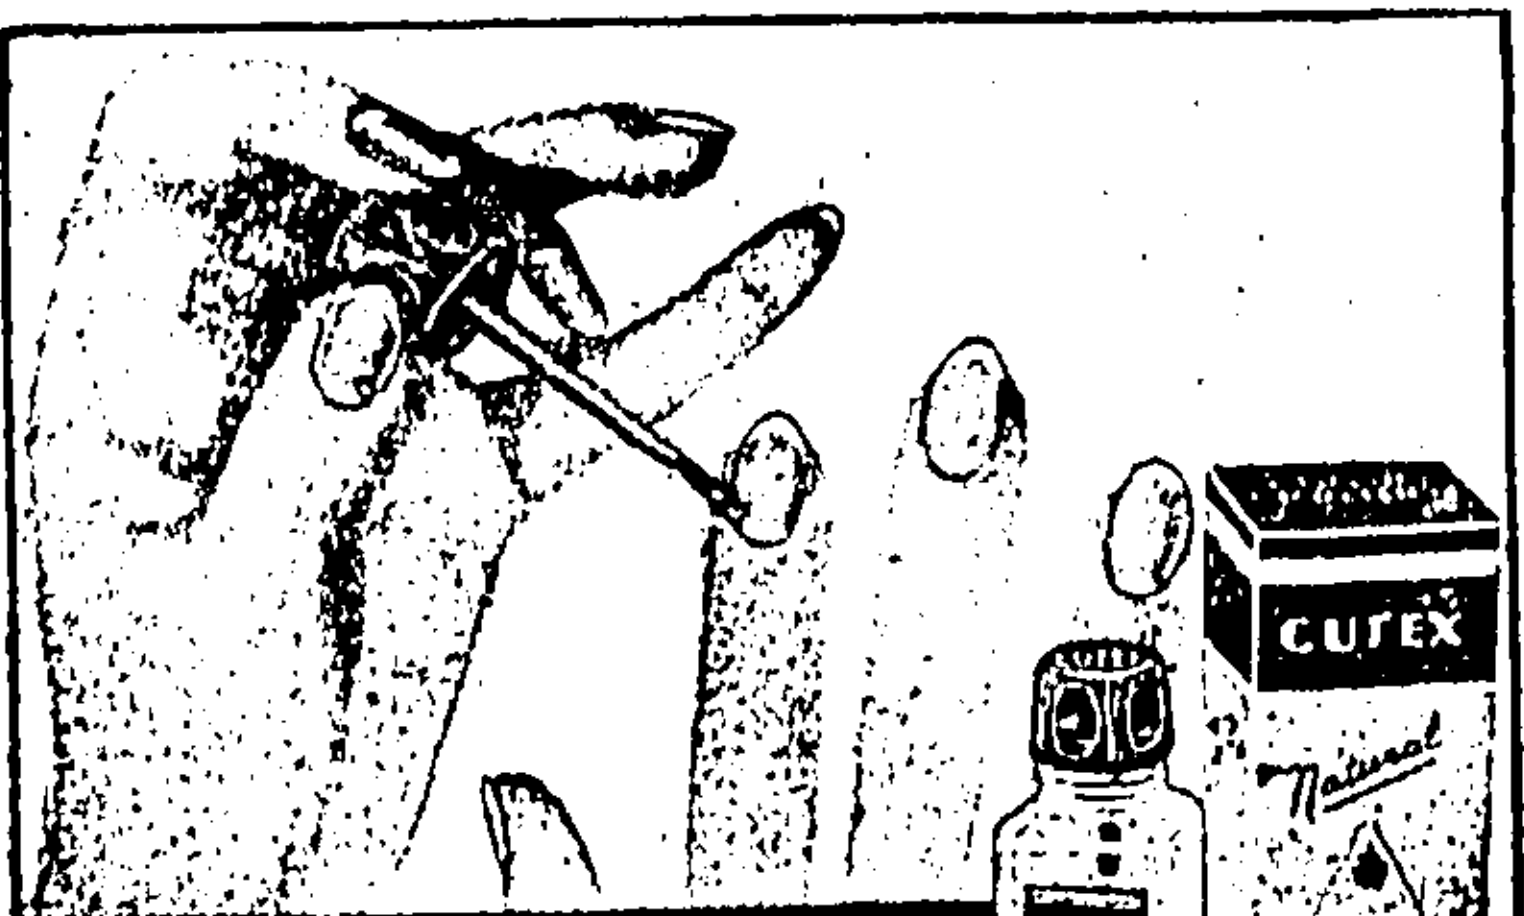

The three-power conversations began at the Quai d'Orsay this morning with a meeting at which M. Laval, Mr. Eden and Baron Aloisi were alone present. This lasted for nearly two hours. (Continued on Page 14.)

Kowloon To See Old Film Triumphs

ALL QUIET ON THE WESTERN FRONT

By Special Film Correspondent

"OLD FAVOURITES" proved so popular at the Star Theatre, Kowloon, earlier this month that the Manager, Mr. C. Golding, has decided upon a more ambitious programme.

It will commence to-morrow, with "King of Jazz", the famous Universal musical, partly in Technicolour, with Paul Whiteman and His Band.

Films that have achieved everlasting fame since talkies commenced will complete a full week's programme, a new "old" film being introduced each night. The complete programme is as follows:

Sunday: "King of Jazz" (Paul Whiteman)
Monday: "Smilin' Through" (Norma Shearer, Leslie Howard)

Tuesday: "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" (Frederick March, Miriam Hopkins)
Wednesday: "Tell me Tonight" (Jan Kiepura)

Thursday: "Bird of Paradise" (Delores del Rio)
Friday: "All Quiet on the Western Front" (Lew Ayres)

Saturday: "Viennese Nights" (Jan Kiepura Again)

Other good news is in store for Hongkong film-goers. "My Song For You", Jan Kiepura's latest picture, is scheduled for release at the Queen's Theatre on August 29. Sonnie Hale, who also played in "Tell Me To-night" is in the cast. This was the last English picture Kiepura made before leaving for Hollywood.

Another marvellous British picture is also scheduled for release at the end of the month. It is "Scarlet Pimpernel", based on Baroness Orczy's famous novel, and it will be released at the King's Theatre. Leslie Howard and Merle Oberon co-star.

"Royal Cavalcade", the King's Jubilee film, will be screened at the Prince's Theatre, Kowloon, to-morrow.

£2,000-A-Week Film Chief Throws Up Job

Winfield Sheehan, who was once a New York police reporter, threw up a $100,000-a-year job yesterday to start a new career.

He made the most successful film since the talkies came—"Cavalcade"—and the last really great silent film—"Seventh Heaven," with Janet Gaynor and Charles Farrell.

For five years Sheehan has been undisputed chief of one of the greatest Hollywood companies. But a month ago Fox merged with Twentieth Century—a financial move engineered by Joseph M. Schenck. Mr. Schenck brought with him into the Fox camp Hollywood's latest production personality, Darryl Zanuck.

It was obvious from that moment that Sheehan and Zanuck were in direct rivalry for control of the combined organisations.

HONGKONG may see Douglas Fairbanks again in the near future.

DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS

Millenium

Come In 125 Years

Boston, Aug. 1. As the result of a plan instituted by the Governor of Massachusetts (Mr. Curley), the city of Boston is likely to have no poor—but it is a long way off.

Mr. Curley, four years ago, took out a U.S.$11,000 a year insurance policy.

It does not become effective, however, until 125 years after the death of his last surviving child.

Meanwhile, it will be accumulating in value, and is expected to reach U.S.$45,548,000 sufficient to provide 2,100 families with $20 a week.

Mr. Curley declared that, if two more citizens of Boston would take out similar policies, there would be no poor in Boston 125 years from now, and no need for welfare work.

Now, Fairbanks announces that he is returning to the East with a staff to produce a film of cannibal life in New Guinea and the East Indies.

A 23-year-old Oxford graduate, Mr. T. R. Harrison, now an ethnologist attached to the New York Museum of Natural History, has been signed up by Douglas Fairbanks to produce the film.

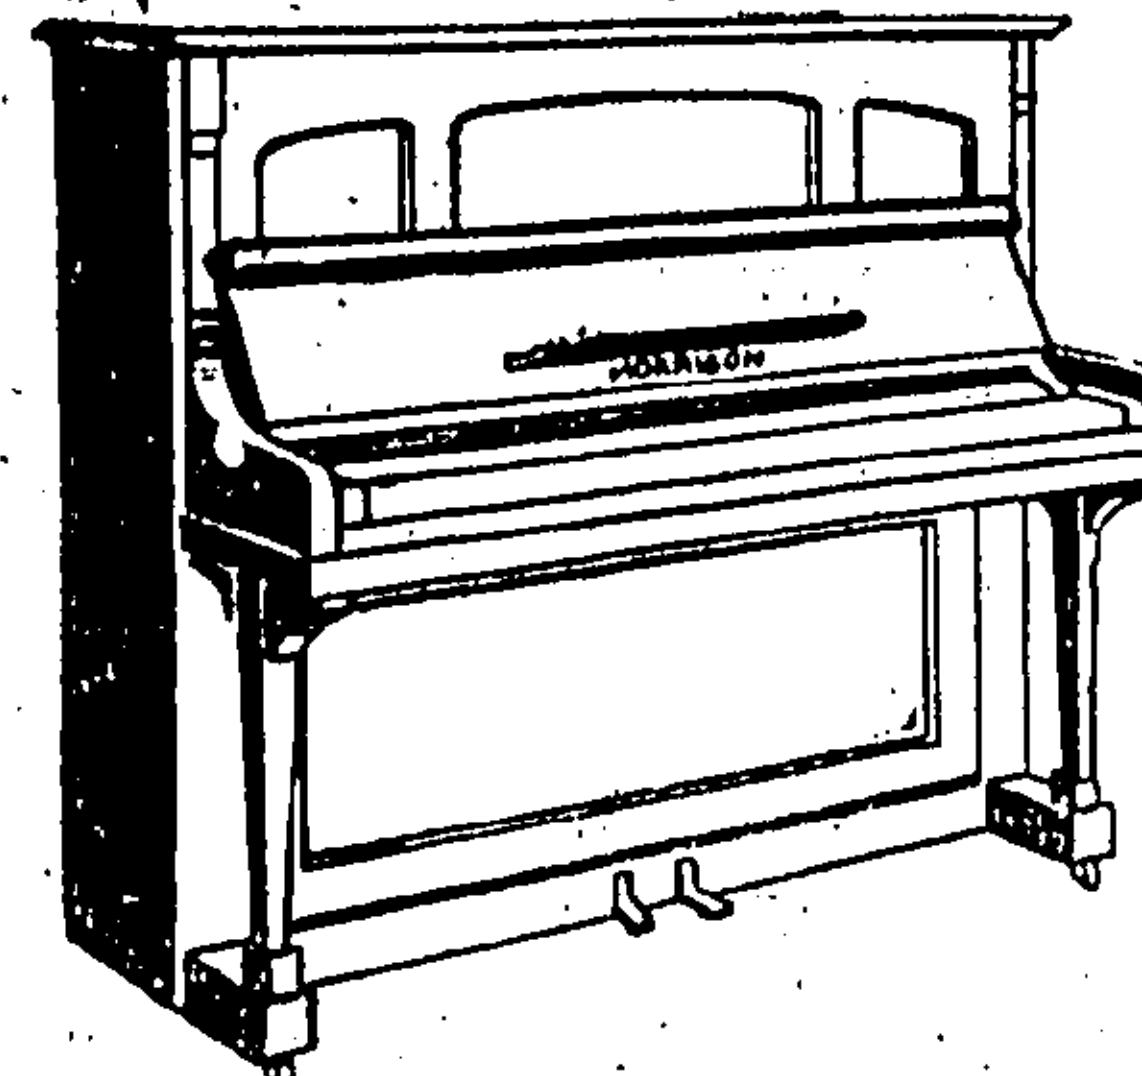

Mr. Fairbanks discovered Mr. Harrison, it is reported, in Vancouver, from information he heard in Java during his world tour, now ending. He was told there of a white man living with the Big Namus, a strange tribe of cannibals and pygmies in the New Hebrides Islands. He set sail for the New Hebrides and found Mr. Harrison there, the only white man amongst the savages.

"We had been told that we would see a white man coming down a certain path out of the woods at a certain time," Mr. Fairbanks said later, "so we cruised along in the yacht and finally Harrison appeared. He took us into the interior to see the strange tribe. They do not go in for eating ordinary white people because they taste too salty. But they eat white missionaries in the belief that they give them strength."

Mr. Fairbanks left two cameramen on the island with 40,000 feet of film to try to photograph the Big Namus tribesmen.

Later Mr. Harrison is to go to Hollywood and make a picture based on the life and habits of the tribe.

AIR ACE BECOMES A FLYING GROCER

Mr. Ray Pater, one of the pioneers of the England-Australia air route, is now pioneering an unusual air service in New Guinea.

He has become a flying grocer. The air freight costs the settlers about two shillings a pound.

Tribute To Lawrence Of Arabia

SPACE for a memorial to Lawrence of Arabia in St. Paul's Cathedral has been offered by the Dean and Chapter.

It will take the form of the bronze head modelled by Kennington from life with the words "Lawrence of Arabia" cut in the stone on the wall underneath it.

"It is felt that posterity will know him as Lawrence rather than as Shaw, the name under which he was trying to escape notoriety," stated the announcement.

One important memorial to Lawrence already preserved is his tiny cottage at Clouds Hill, close to which he was killed. His heirs have promised that the cottage and land surrounding it will eventually be offered to the National Trust.

Canon Alexander, Canon and treasurer of St. Paul's, told a reporter that the bust of Lawrence will stand in the central part of the crypt near to the Nelson Memorial. "The memorials in that part of the Cathedral are of soldiers and sailors and active people of that sort," he said. It seemed an appropriate situation for a memorial of Lawrence.

Mr. Eric Kennington, one of the most distinguished of young British sculptors, executed the Thomas Hardy memorial statue at Dorchester.

DEPRESSED BY ACUTE ACIDITY

There can surely be no doubt about the effectiveness of a remedy for acidity that can give such permanent relief as in this woman's case.

"I suffered for many years from acidity in various forms," she writes. "At last it became so acute that every morning I woke with a gnawing pain and a great depression of spirits. I tried Kruschen Salts, and the effect was magical. The pain subsided and the depression lifted like a cloud. I have taken the daily dose of Kruschen ever since. That was about five years ago, and the Kruschen does not lose its effect. It did more than produce temporary benefit—it completely relieved in a year or two, and I have not had that gnawing pain since."

(Miss) E. M. H. Kruschen is so effective with acidity because it neutralises acid, takes all the ferment out of it, and gently expels it from the system. And by stimulating your organs of elimination to perfect regular action, Kruschen will prevent this harmful acid from ever accumulating again. After that you'll experience no more misery after meals.

There is a wide and obvious difference between cheap and good tailoring.

Cheap tailoring gives stiff lines and is the kind of tailoring that finds it hard to conceal its machine-made origin.

BERNARD'S tailoring is instantly distinguished by its subtle lines and quiet, self-confident style. It has the character and style which is eloquent of genuine hand-tailoring.

NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING

Advertisers embarking on new campaigns can minimise wasteful expenditure while gaining experience for future operations.

During the present year, several local firms have effected considerable economy by cutting out all stunt and subsidiary advertising and concentrating on newspaper publicity, and they have been agreeably surprised at the results.

A coloured circular, hand-bill or poster may have a momentary appeal, but it soon becomes stale. Free Gift Schemes have also fallen by the wayside. Merchants are realising that there is no substitute for the steady all-the-year-round appeal of newspaper advertising. It reaches the homes of the community and is constantly circulating in districts reached by virtue of the fact that it accompanies the eagerly sought after news of the day.

The greater the sales—the greater the value to the advertiser, and it is because of this that the keen advertiser wants to know definite figures as to PAID CIRCULA-TION.

The circulations of the South China
Morning Post and The Hongkong
Telegraph are certified by Chartered Accountants.

Advertisers who concentrate on these two newspapers make a sound investment.

HONGKONG AND SILVER

Unusual conditions have prevailed in the silver market this week, due to the weakening of the price in London and Bombay, later influenced by reports of the possibility of the United States abandoning its silver purchase scheme. Hongkong, as practically the sole centre retaining its currency on silver, has naturally been keenly watching developments. The view that America would reverse her silver policy turns out to have been based on unsubstantial grounds, since, although there is no indication of the United States buying at fancy prices created by speculators, it seems clear that there is no intention of total withdrawal from the world markets. All that appears to be happening is that the U. S. Treasury, in pursuit of its plans to accumulate silver stocks in a proportion of one-quarter of its gold holdings, is buying at the most advantageous level. Consequently, when speculators were forced to sell in order to cover their commitments on Tuesday, America stepped in and purchased the huge quantity of twenty-five million ounces. This action was a sufficient answer to the rumoured intention of ceasing purchases altogether. There are admittedly aspects of the American silver policy which it is difficult to follow, but credit must be given to the Treasury experts and their advisers for knowing what they are doing, and why. The point to be borne in mind is that no time-limit has been set to the accumulation of the huge quantity of silver which the United States desires to secure, and it is therefore reasonable to suppose, unless the silverites can impose their will on the Administration—and provided the Silver Purchase Act remains on the statute book—that there will be no marked variation in the immediate future from the policy of buying only when the price happens to be suitable. If that is the line followed, big fluctuations in the price would appear to be unlikely. So far as Hongkong is concerned, its position is not an enviable one. There is a growing feeling in favour of stabilisation of the local dollar, but such a step is

NOTES OF THE DAY

A PANTRY PARADOX

Consistency is a jewel, says the proverb. What, then, must be said of a substance that steams when exposed to the air, freezes things solid when you put them into the proper sort of container with it, registers a temperature of 109 degrees below zero, but feels too hot to hold? No jewel for consistency, this. But a gold mine, nevertheless—dry ice. In the last decade this pantry politician—that is to say, it seems always to be promising one thing and doing another—has built up a new American industry. It has, of course, confined its lobbying to keeping ice cream hard in back hallways until dinner time. Yet it has extended its influence even into the game of golf, where, as a ball-centre, it puts such liveliness into the play, such length into the drive, as to lead to the prediction that some players who have given the game up for the ninth or tenth time will take it up yet again. The number of uses already discovered for this product is really amazing. In fact, it appears that only one has been overlooked. That is its employment as an aid to instructors in ice skating. For years, these teachers have been puzzled by the inclination—may, propensity—of neophytes to sit, roll, or otherwise recline luxuriously on the surface of the frozen rink instead of keeping on their feet. If, as the instructors seem to believe, the too frequently horizontal positions of would-be ice skaters are due to some peculiar comfort to be derived from suddenly assuming these postures, the remedy may be dry ice. At least it would "make it hot" for those learners who continued to "lie down on the job."

RECONSTRUCTION

"Reconstruction," a commanding phrase in early post-war economies, and lately an important word in American radio and screen entertainment, is clamouring for admission into England. Some American radio stations send out news bulletins which are "reconstructions" of current events in the form of potted dramas. A little while ago a sample of this kind of news summary was given the British public at a time when the British Broadcasting Corporation was experimenting with its own information service. A well-known American magazine issues weekly a news film based upon the "reconstruction" of current events with the aid of the actual participants in them or with substitute actors. This news reel is now to be shown in Britain, and English critics are at present urging the British film companies to make similar news reels themselves.

DICKENS DID IT

But it is recognised that this is a large question. Since these "reconstructions" are carried out under the light of editorial interpretation, sometimes with the real people concerned, and sometimes with actors, they inevitably become a mingling of fact and fiction. Such minglings are not, of course, uncommon, for authors often use incidents in their own lives to make parts of novels, as Dickens did in "David Copperfield." However, they have invariably been regarded hitherto as fiction. At present equally imaginative reconstructions of dialogue are seriously passed off as biography or history, and the kind of news reel in question is regarded as "film journalism." It may be, and doubtless often is, a wise and balanced editorial production. But there is a strong feeling in England that news reels should be real news; and that the very greatest care should be taken to see that what may be accepted by the public as objective fact is objective fact, and nothing more; that what is recollected or "reconstructed" should be sharply defined from what is an actual, current record.

made unusually difficult owing to uncertainty regarding America's future silver policy and China's currency plans. Until there is some prospect of permanency in these policies, Hongkong must walk warily in the matter of stabilisation. A false step in the stabilisation rate might work incalculable injury to the Colony. Were China to link up definitely with the sterling bloc, the task would be rendered somewhat easier and less liable to cause us harm, but at the moment there is no indication that China intends to change the basis of her currency. In the circumstances, therefore, desirable as stabilisation would be, there seems little that Hongkong can do but await developments in the outside world.

BRITISH CHALLENGE ON ATLANTIC

By SIR GEORGE THURSTON

THE coming year should see put to the test the rivalry between the Queen Mary and Normandie for the Blue Riband of the Atlantic. It is probably news to the general public that the propelling installations in these ships are fundamentally different. In fact, so different are the ships in this vital particular that a comparison is at once instructive and productive. A great deal of secrecy is being observed by both parties regarding what power is really provided for in these ships, so that for the moment only an approximation to the actual powers can be given here. The knowledge, however, is sufficient for our purpose. In the Queen Mary the steam will be supplied to turbines which drive the propeller shafts through single-reduction gearing. In the Normandie the steam is supplied to turbo-alternators which generate electricity, which is supplied to special synchronous motors driving the propeller shafts.

In selecting the type of propelling machinery the designer is faced with the knowledge that for an efficient turbine the revolutions must be high, of the order of 2,000 to 3,000 per minute, and to obtain the greatest efficiency from the propeller the revolutions must be low, of the order of 200 per minute. The direct turbine drive must be a compromise in which some sacrifice is made in both the efficiency of the turbine and the propeller, and is seldom fitted in modern designs. The choice must therefore be made between the single-reduction geared turbine, where the energy in the steam is converted into mechanical power by the turbine running at high revolutions, and delivered to the propeller (running at reduced revolutions through a reduction gear of about 10:1), and the turbo-electric system. Here the mechanical power from the turbine, running at high revolutions, is converted into electrical power, at high voltage, in the alternator and then reconverted into mechanical power by the electric motors running at low revolutions, on the propeller shafts.

The advantages usually claimed for the turbo-electric drive are large astern manoeuvring power, due to the ability of the motors to develop full power astern; economy at reduced speeds by running only one alternator on two motors on one side of the ship; and flexibility of control.

The efficiencies of the boiler plants in the two ships should be about equal.

If therefore follows that, other things being equal, the Normandie will require not less than 6 per cent. more boiler power and will burn not less than 6 per cent. more fuel than the Queen Mary for the same horse power delivered to the propellers.

From information published from time to time and reasonable deductions as to certain features of these vessels, it may help in the comparison if some mention is made of the varying dimensions and particulars.

The overall length of the Queen Mary is 1,018ft. and that of the Normandie 1,029ft. The deep displacement of the Queen Mary is 63,000 tons and that of the Normandie 68,500 tons. The shaft horse power of the Queen Mary is 200,000—that is, 50,000 on each shaft; and that of the Normandie 160,000—40,000 on each shaft.

The propellers of the Queen Mary are four, with 180 revolutions per minute, the weight of each propeller being 35 tons. Those of the Normandie are also four, running at 238 to 248 revolutions per minute, the weight of each propeller being 23½ tons.

As regards freedom from noise and vibration, there is probably little to choose between the two methods, for gearing can now be made to run silently at very high efficiency—98.50 per cent. being claimed for modern gears.

The difference in flexibility of control between the turbo-electric and geared turbine drives is probably also very small.

Economy in fuel is claimed for the electric drive at low powers, but this is not of first importance in Atlantic liners, which operate mainly at speeds approaching the maximum.

Experiments on model propellers show that, in general, three-bladed propellers are more efficient than four-bladed. It is claimed, however, that four-bladed propellers result in a more uniform turning movement and that in rough water less vibration is experienced with four-bladed than with three-bladed propellers.

Neither system holds advantage over the other on the subject of vibration.

Such vibration as reports said occurred in the Normandie was due to the propellers, and may be considerably reduced by the new four-bladed propellers now fitted.

The reliability of the geared turbine drive for propelling machinery of large power, in vessels running for long periods, near maximum speed, has been proved, while the reliability of the turbo-electric drive for this work obtains its first important test in the Normandie.

Taking into consideration the larger shaft horse-power of the Queen Mary, the greater efficiency of the geared turbine drive, and the possibly much smaller displacement tonnage on the voyage, also the fact that numerous model tank trials have been made in order to arrive at the most suitable form of the hull, there is no doubt that the Queen Mary should develop a speed in excess of that of the Normandie. She should, in fact, secure for Britain the Blue Riband of the Atlantic.

According to a local gossip writer "Jedhpurs" are becoming. Some of our Hongkong lovelies certainly seem to have acquired the habit.

The noise created by Double Eagles this week would indicate that they're feeding parrots.

The Week's Silver Review: Contrary to general expectations, silver slumped, surprisingly, seriously shaking the steady speculators. Polynesia bought heavily, the Bombay offtake being negligible. Bullion remained where it was, despite position previously forecast. Outlook: Much about the same as it might have been before it was otherwise.

Notwithstanding the above, Double Eagles were seen to be in the ascendant, occasionally soaring to dizzy heights, which, with the prevailing fog, prevented a clear view of the market movement.

ESTATE DUTY
ORDINANCELOCAL LAW BEING AMENDED.

The Gazette contains the draft of an Ordinance to amend the law relating to Estate Duty and to provide for the payment of any such duty, which may be due, before a successor is registered with-out probate or administration.

The Estate Duty Ordinance (No. 3 of 1932) extends generally to the New Territories (under section 3 of the Interpretation Ordinance, 1911) but by section 6 (4) land there situated, in respect of which a successor has been registered under the first clause of section 29 of the New Territories Regulation Ordinance, 1910 (No. 34 of 1910), has been exempted where it does not form part of an estate of which probate or letters of administration have been granted by the Supreme Court.

NEW EXEMPTIONS

The effect of section 2 of this amending Ordinance will be to remove the exemption, as from the 1st January, 1937, and to substitute a new exemption, not limited to land, under which property situated in the New Territories, other than New Kowloon, will be exempt from duty where the principal value of the estate does not exceed two thousand dollars, and property situated elsewhere in the Colony where the principal value of the estate does not exceed five hundred dollars.

The Schedules to the Estate Duty Ordinance do not provide for the payment of any duty where the principal value of the estate does not exceed five hundred dollars, but having regard to the provisions of section 4 thereof it is considered desirable to make express provision in section 6 of that Ordinance for the exemption of these small estates.

Other exemptions are made in respect of temples for the worship of ancestors.

CINEMA NEWS

NOTES FROM THE THEATRES

"Private Worlds," the new Claudette Colbert starring picture, comes on Sunday to the King's Theatre. The film, the first in which Miss Colbert has appeared since she won the Award of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences for the best feminine performance of 1934, is based on the best-selling novel of the same title by Phyllis Bottome. Her supporting cast is headed by Charles Boyer, Jean Bennett, Helen Vinson and Joel McCrea. "Private Worlds" is the story of a brilliant young woman psychiatrist who is unable to apply to the "private world" of her own mind the same clinical understanding that wins her fame in dealing with others. Obsessed with the memory of a sweetheart killed in the war, she is unable to yield to a newer, greater love until a near-catastrophe presents itself. Boyer, the young French star who is swimming here in Hollywood, plays the role of her husband, who is the main plot—a three-act romance involving McCrea, Miss Bennett and Miss Vinson. Miss Colbert's role offers her the opportunity to combine the best features of her light-hearted portrayals in "The Girl in the Red Velvet" and "The Girl in the Green Velvet" with the more serious characteristics of some of her previous efforts. Gregory La Cava directed "Private Worlds," which was produced for Paramount by Walter Wanger.

"Murder in the Clouds" is an airplane picture, but despite the flying scenes, it is a drama. The film, the first National production, which will be shown from Sunday to Tuesday at the Alhambra, the roar of airplane engines overhead completely ruined the recording of dialogue being spoken in the scene. The suspense in question was a case of beside an airport, rehearsals having been finished to the satisfaction of everyone, actual filming started, but at that very moment a low flying airplane dived over the heads of the players. Several times after when filming was resumed, the airplane zoomed by and each time it became necessary to take the scene again. Director D. Ross Lederman was annoyed at the delay, but Lyle Talbot laughed it off with the remark, "Well, this is an airplane picture you know." The picture is a thrilling drama with baffling murders committed in the air. There is a stirring triangular romance in which Talbot, Ann Dvorak and Gordon Westcott figure. Others in the cast include Robert Light, George Cooper, Charles Wilson, Henry Neill and Russell Hicks. The story and screen play are by Roy Chanslor and Dore Schary.

"Public Hero No. 1," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's drama of the government's war on crime is more thrilling than any thing that fiction can provide. From the file of reality M-G-M has taken a great story of a man who defies death—who goes to prison—who trails the most dangerous band that ever terrorized America—who brings to justice the country's greatest public enemy. It's packed with thrills, with romance, with amazing action—and every bit of it is based on actual fact. Chester Morris plays the adventurous Jeff Crane, and Joseph Quinn, Jr., the gangster overlord, Lionel Barrymore has a great role as the strange doctor, and Jean Arthur, Paul Kelly, Lewis Stone and others are featured in this amazing picture. Don't miss it—see the battles and pursue the sensational jail break—and watch the long arm of Uncle Sam break up a criminal ring—in the work of to-day's greatest heroes, the Secret Service.

FINE NEW COASTAL
STEAMERFOR INDO CHINA
S.N. FLEET

The Takasago, latest addition to the fleet of the Indo-China S. N. Co., Ltd., is due to arrive here this morning from England on her maiden voyage. The vessel, which was built by Messrs. Lithgow, Glasgow, to the standards of the B.O.T. and Lloyd's, was launched last May by Mrs. Keswick.

The ship can be easily recognised by her graceful yet business-like appearance, with cut away bow, cruiser stern, and "hull" of 27 feet moulded depth, the Takasago is specially designed for the carriage of European and Chinese first class passengers in large single and two-berth staterooms, and storage accommodation for baggage and other necessities.

There is also provision for the carriage of 7,000 tons deadweight of cargo, including perishable goods. Every comfort of the modern accommodation has been carefully studied, as an inspection of her modern accommodation and large European and Chinese saloons shows, while storage space is provided with scuttled decks as against the more usual practice of bare steel.

Special attention has been given to the risks of piracy, and travellers are assured of safety as far as this is humanly possible by adequate armaments and the protection of a crew of four holds and twelve decks, with lock-up and refrigerated space, will ensure the careful handling of cargo which will be carried by electric winches, derricks operated by rapid and silent electric winches. There is also a heavy derrick to lift weights up to 20 tons. Fire fighting and extinguishing apparatus is installed in each compartment.

The main engines are of the four crank, triple-expansion type, working in conjunction with a Rowan-Gordon turbo compressor. The whole running free from vibration, such as the Takasago will maintain a high speed to give quick service to passengers and shippers. Power for the electric winches, pumps, lighting etc., is supplied by two large steam driven generators.

History Recalled. The history of the Indo-China S. N. Co., Ltd., can be traced back to the early days of the last century through some of the original bills of lading which hang in the saloon of the Takasago. Messrs. Magnin & Co., mentioned in the earliest of these documents, were succeeded in 1832 by Messrs. Jardine, Matheson & Co., who took over their business, and the fleet which later, in 1881, became known as the Indo-China S. N. Co., Ltd.

The Jameson and Colonel Young referred to in these bills of lading were amongst the earliest of the opium Clippers, and with other famous ships such as the Red Rover, Falcon, and Fairy, carried the house flag of Ewo into many ports along the China coast.

These craft were superseded by the stately tea Clippers of a later generation, giving way in turn to the first steamers of the service, which were the forerunners of this latest addition to the Indo-China fleet. The Takasago bears the name of a famous predecessor.

and discriminating performance. Others who give outstanding performances include C. Aubrey Smith, Leo G. Carroll and Phyllis Coghlan.

"King of Jazz." No less an authority than Herman Rosse, one of Europe's most famous designers, has created for Universal's spectacular musical extravaganza, "King of Jazz," coming to-morrow to the Star Theatre, a kaleidoscope of beauty in both costumes and settings. While designing for "King of Jazz," Rosse took full advantage not only of his theatrical experience, but also of the tremendously broadened scope afforded him by the screen. The natural space restrictions of the stage were removed in his new medium and, because of the lavishness of the production, his brilliant imagination for beauty was given full play for the first time in his career. The result of this imagination is apparent in the beautiful costumes and settings which he conceived for "King of Jazz." Given also the advantage of all-Technicolor photographing, he was enabled to blend the colour combination he visualized into actual production.

TEST MEN SHOW FORM WITH BAT

HAMMOND MAKES CENTURY

WYATT ONE RUN SHORT

London, Aug. 16. Once again the County Cricket matches throughout England today were featured by some heavy scoring, batsmen holding a decided advantage over the bowlers. Two of the men selected to play against the South Africans at the Oval to-morrow distinguished themselves, W. R. Hammond scoring a century while R. E. S. Wyatt fell short of the three-figure mark by a single run.

The highest score of the series was put up by Leicestershire although it fell to Lancashire to make more runs per wicket. Leicestershire had 501 runs on the board when the captain declared their innings closed against Hampshire and Lancashire lost only five wickets in putting up a total of 169.

Leicestershire was visiting Portsmouth when her batsmen revealed their best form to rattle up their 501 runs for new wickets declared. W. Smith and Berry were the chief contributors, the former claiming 125 without losing his wicket and the latter 161.

WYATT UNFORTUNATE

Surrey, playing against Warwickshire at Birmingham, secured first innings points by scoring 409 runs in reply to an opposition total of 371. Wyatt was unfortunate not to reach the century and made 99 for Warwickshire while Fishlock contributed 127 towards the Surrey score. When stumps were drawn Warwickshire had made 261 for five wickets in the second innings.

Hardstaff, the Notts batsman, and Cameron, of Somerset, carried off the honours for the match at Weston-super-Mare where Somerset took first innings points from Nottinghamshire. After Notts had made 288 runs, Somerset scored 289, Cameron contributing 111, while in their second innings Notts had 294 runs on the board when the last wicket fell. Hardstaff was responsible for 128, Somerset had 94 for three at the close of play.

Hammond once again distinguished himself when playing against Middlesex on the Cheltenham College Ground where the hosts lost by four wickets. The home side compiled a total of 344, of which Hammond made 124 while Middlesex made 226. After Gloucestershire had been dismissed for 180, the visitors lost six wickets in reaching 226 runs.

SUPPRISE CAUSED

KATHARINE STAMMERS WINS FIRST MATCH

BEATS HELEN JACOBS

New York, Aug. 16. With spirited driving down both sides of the court and keeping her opponent constantly on the run as a result Miss Katharine Stammers, the British lady tennis star, created a surprise to-day when she beat Miss Helen Jacobs in the opening match in the annual Wightman Cup lawn tennis contest at Forest Hills.

Three matches were played to-day and of these Great Britain won two, the two singles, and lost one, the doubles. Four ties are to be played off to-morrow (Saturday). Miss Stammers won by 5-7, 6-1, 9-7.

The match was played in scorching heat and during the first set Miss Jacobs, with sizzling drives down both wings was able to out-play her opponent after twelve games but in the second set Miss Stammers, with some spirited driving and volleying, had the American woman running all over the court.

As a result, Miss Jacobs was forced to net the ball or hit it outside.

In the third set Helen Jacobs held the lead at 5-4 and again at 6-5 but Miss Stammers won the next two games with the loss of only one point. The American levelled up at 7-7 but she finally cracked up, however, and lost the next two games.

Dorothy Round won her match against Mrs. Arnold in the easiest possible manner, conceding but three games. She won the first set to love and the second 6-3, the match being over in half an hour.

The Americans reduced the deficit in the doubles match when Miss Helen Jacobs and Mrs. Sarah Palfrey-Fabry beat Miss Stammers and Miss Freda James 6-3, 6-2.—Reuter.

The programme for to-day consists of three singles and one doubles matches and is as follows:
Mrs. Sarah Palfrey-Fabry (U.S.) v. Miss Phyllis King (Great Britain).
Miss Helen Jacobs (U.S.) v. Miss Dorothy Round (Great Britain).
Mrs. Burkhardt Arnold (U.S.) v. Miss Katharine Stammers (Great Britain).
Miss Carolyn Babcock and Mrs. Dorothy Andrus (U.S.) v. Miss Nancy Lyle and Miss Evelyn Dearman (Great Britain).

JAPANESE SWIMMERS THE BEST

SHOULD WIN IN OLYMPICS

AMERICANS SHOW PROMISE

San Francisco, Aug. 16. "The Japanese will undoubtedly be the ones to beat in the next Olympics. They were in the last," said Mr. Robert Kiphuth, famous swimming coach of Yale University, as he set out with fifteen American swimming stars for international competition with swimmers in Japan in August.

"Our competition with them in August will be a pre-Olympic test of great importance. I look for our boys to make a very creditable showing," he added.

Mr. Kiphuth said that he thought the return of the United States to swimming supremacy in the 1936 Olympic Games was "not too remote a possibility." He said that the present roster of American swimmers shows more promise than any since the 1928 Olympics at Amsterdam.

"Our 800-metre relay team, composed of Ralph Flanagan, of Miami, Florida, Jack Medina, of Seattle, Jimmy Gilman of Detroit and Johnny Macdonald of Philadelphia, should be the best we have ever had," he stated.

Mr. Tom Bromilow, the Burnley manager and former Liverpool and England international half-back, has accepted the managership of Crystal Palace in succession to Mr. Jack Foulds, who is now with Tottenham Hotspur.

PEACOCK PROVES WORTH

WINS AGAINST JESSE OWENS

THIRD TIME OVER 100 YARDS

New York City, Aug. 1. Eulace Peacock of Temple University, has proved himself the master of Jesse Owens of Ohio State University, in the hundred yard dash, for the third time.

Competing in a meet held at Ohio Field, New York University, Peacock ran the "hundred" on a rain-soaked track in 9.97, Owens finishing second, six inches behind his coloured adversary.

Peacock streaked away from the others at the starting gun, and at the halfway mark Owens was some feet behind him. The dusky Ohioan then started to creep up on Peacock with the cat-like smoothness which is his style, until he was almost shoulder to shoulder with the winner at the finish.

A nineteen-year-old lad from the New York Curb Exchange, Ed O'Sullivan, sprang a great surprise. Running magnificently, he finished third, only one yard and a half behind Owens.

A world record for the Swedish 1,000-metre relay, was set by a quartette from the New York Athletic Club. They covered the distance in 1:56.1 as compared with the old record of 1:56.7 set by the United States team at Oslo, Norway, in 1934.

NOT A FIGHTER AMONG THEM

JUST BUNCH OF CAKE-EATERS

PRESENT DAY'S "HEAVIES"

San Francisco, Aug. 11. Sailor Tom Sharkey, famous pugilist of forty years ago, who fought them all from John L. Sullivan to James J. Jeffries, thinks Max Baer is finished, and that the entire crop of heavyweights to-day are "just a bunch of cake-eaters, not a fighter among them."

The bull-necked, barrel-chested terror of olden days, made a partial exception in the case of Joe Louis, Negro heavyweight, whom he described as "a great fighter but great only because there are no good ones in the ring to-day."

Baer's "feeble effort" in losing the title to James J. Braddock, Sharkey said, "must have been a shock to every living ex-champion. I didn't see the fight but the moving pictures told me enough. Baer acted like he was rehearsing a skit. I used to think that perhaps Baer had the makings of a champion, but I guess he's all washed out now. You can't burn the candle at both ends and expect to keep winning fights."

"That excuse he gave about having a bad hand," Sharkey continued, "made me laugh. I see it turned out to be water on the knuckle. Say, I've seen fellows go through twenty rounds with a busted hand and maybe water on the knee, too. I fought Jeffries twenty-five rounds at Coney Island with four broken ribs and haven't used it as an excuse for losing yet. Braddock will lose the title to Louis if they ever meet, and I don't think they will."

Sharkey, now sixty-one years old, is employed as a "bouncer" at a local cafe.

With improved weather conditions the Lawn Bowls leagues are making good progress and if there are no further blank Saturdays it is just possible that the season will be brought to a close without interference with cricket and football which start next month. In many clubs nets will be put up for cricket practice in three weeks' time but until there are the regularly Saturday afternoon games lawn bowlers will be able to continue with their favourite pastime.

Clubs like the Craigengower C.C., the Civil Service C.C. and the Police R.C. will find it difficult to accommodate the two games during the end of September and early October.

Last Saturday's defeat of the Club de Recreio by the Craig-engower C.C. has now practically ensured the title being retained by the champions. The Craigengower players have six more matches to play and of these four are on their own green. They have to meet the Police and Kowloon B.G.C. in home and away fixtures while they also have the Kowloon Docks and the Indian R.C. to play on their own green.

It is exactly two years this week-end since they were last beaten by an outside team on their own green at Happy Valley.
Then, on August 19, the Club de Recreio beat the holders by nine shots. In the same season the Police, playing at the Craigengower
C.C., also won from the present title holders.

To-day the champions are again meeting the Police R.C. and although it is not expected that they will lose it is never safe to be too sure.

The Club de Recreio should not have too much difficulty in maintaining their position as they will receive a visit from the Kowloon Docks R.C.

What will probably be the most interesting match of the day will be that at the Civil Service C.C.
green when the Kowloon Cricket Club will make an endeavour to leave the bottom of the league table. These two teams have been bracketed at the bottom from the very beginning of the season with the exception of one week when the Civil Service won against the Craigengower C.C. "B". The next Saturday the Kowloon C.C. secured its first victory at the expense of the Indian R.C. This will be the first time that the two sides have

Speaking about Judicious Advertising

Advertising, once the Cinderella of the business world, has become a necessity. It is both an aid to business and a guide to the public; It is informative and helpful. Leading firms such as Mackintosh's, Ltd., whose names are household words throughout the Far East, specialise in newspaper advertising in the sense that it creates a vital link in their scheme of service to their many customers.

met this season as their previous match was postponed.
The chances are even and the result may rest on the advantage which the Civil Servants have in having the match played on their green.

A correspondent suggests that the Hongkong Travel Association should "make up its mind" how the name of the Colony should be written, following both forms appearing in a recent advertisement. The mistake was not attributable to the Association, which uses "Hongkong", but was due to a

GARETH JONES MURDERED

RIDDLED WITH BULLETS

Peiping, Aug. 16. Mr. Jones' bullet riddled body has been found near Paohang. He was apparently killed on August 12. His death has not been confirmed by the British Embassy.—United Press.

The above news has also been confirmed by Reuter report. Found by Villagers.

Peiping, Aug. 16. The Charhar Peace Preservation Corps troops on Wednesday started to pursue the bandits believed to be holding Mr. Jones near Paohang.

Foreign advices from Kalgan received at 2 p.m. today state that Peace Preservation Corps men found the body of Mr. Jones, with three bullet holes, at a small village a few miles from Paohang.

Vague information gleaned from villagers indicates that Mr. Jones was killed on Monday. Chinese sources state that his body was found by villagers on Monday morning, but it is unknown whether he was killed there or carried there, as there is no sign of the bandits.

The British Embassy has received no confirmation of Mr. Jones' tragic end yet, but is expecting a report from Mr. Miller at Kalgan, at any moment.—United Press.

No Room for Doubt

Peiping, Aug. 16. The death of Mr. Gareth Jones has not been officially confirmed, but circumstantial details leave little room for doubt that the report is true.

The report states that on August 13 the Charhar Government messenger visited the bandits in the vicinity of Paohang to see if Mr. Jones was with them, and if so to negotiate for his release.

He never returned, whereupon the Chinese authorities decided on military measures and a round-up of the bandits using the Peace Preservation Corps for the purpose. These troops, found the body of Mr. Jones, a few miles from Paohang, with three bullet wounds in it, and from local information they believe that he was killed on August 8, which would appear to explain the detention of the messenger so that the news was withheld from the outside world.

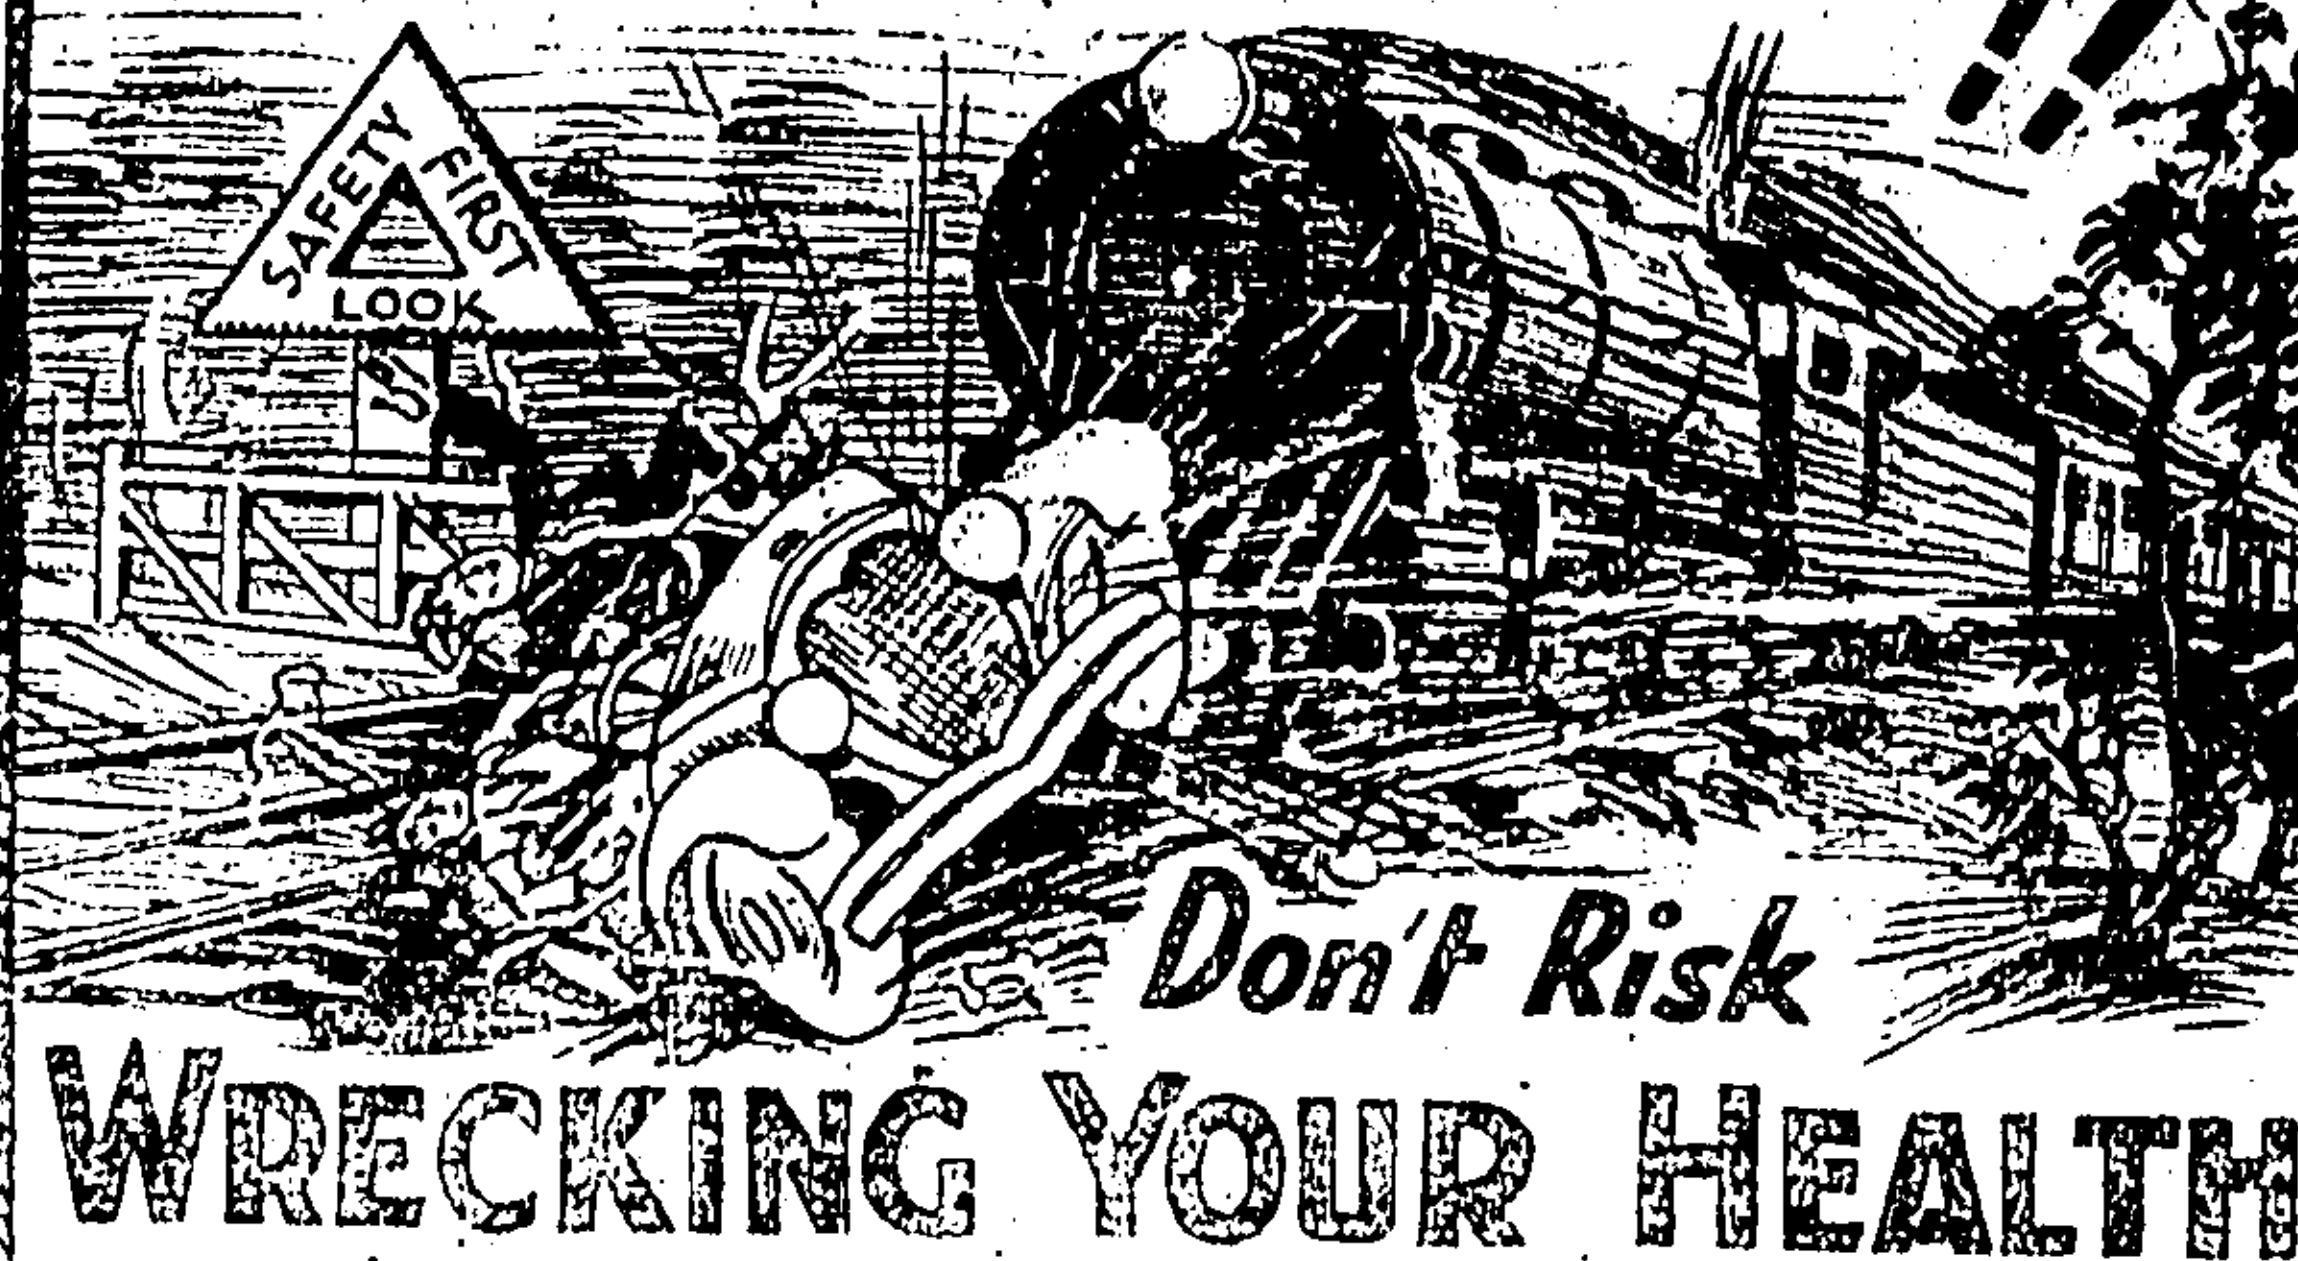

Mr. Gareth Jones, therefore appears to have died on the eve of his thirtieth birthday. Another report states that his body has now been taken to Paohang.—United Press.

Explanation

Peiping, Aug. 16. A possible explanation of the murder of Mr. Jones, and an explanation of the bandits' failure to collect the ransom which had been sent by the Charhar authorities, appears to lie in the fact, now revealed, that at the time that the ransom was sent the magistrate at Paohang district, who was responsible for the negotiations at that time, failed to inform the Kalgan district magistrate of what was going on.

The Kuyuan magistrate heard that the bandits were threatening to enter his territory, whereupon he sent the Peace Preservation Corps to intercept them. Coinciding with the sudden departure of the bandits with Mr. Jones to the Jehol border, this act on the part of the Kuyuan magistrate destroyed the bandits' belief in the sincerity of the negotiators.—Reuter.

Dr. Mueller's Grief

Peiping, Aug. 16. Dr. Mueller, who was captured with Mr. Gareth Jones, and was afterwards released in order to conduct the ransom negotiations, in a message from Kalgan says that he is deeply shocked by the tragic news.

Dr. Mueller adds: I am going to Paohang to-morrow to identify the body and do anything I can to assist.—United Press.

Mr. Lloyd George's Tribute

London, Aug. 16. Mr. Lloyd George was horror-struck when he heard of the murder of Mr. Gareth Jones and said: "He was always dauntless and had a passion for finding out what was happening in foreign countries when there was any trouble about. I was always afraid that one day he would take one risk too many, as he allowed no obstacle to deflect him."—Reuter.

Father Informed

London, Aug. 16. The long and acute suspense suffered by Mr. Gareth Jones' parents was broken this morning when Reuter informed the father, Major Edgar Jones, of his son's death.

The father was too overcome to speak for some time. Then he whispered, "Oh how terrible!" and went to break the news to his wife.

Major Jones is an authority on Welsh educational matters, while his son was a most brilliant linguist. He lectured on languages at Cambridge before joining Mr. Lloyd George's staff in 1920. He was widely travelled and a keen student of foreign affairs.—Reuter.

SERIAL STORY—

One I Love

By LAURA LOU BROOKMAN

For Janet and Rolf there couldn't be a blue and white kitchen, a vine-clad bungalow or even a tiny, cheap, third floor apartment. They couldn't be married because the combined total of their savings accounts was $214 short of $500.

Five hundred dollars that total must be before Janet and Rolf could go to the court house and then to the church and solemnly exchange promises to love and cherish one another until death. It might not seem a large sum to a great many people. To Janet and Rolf it was huge indeed. It was also the absolute minimum on which a matrimonial venture might safely be launched.

Janet knew this because she had read it in a magazine. It was Janet who had insisted the $500 must be in the bank before their marriage. There had been arguments. Dozens of them. Rolf had wanted to hunt up a preacher the very next day after that precious, insane bus ride on an April night when, with a dozen other passengers about them, he had somehow got out the all-important question who a girl whose whisper was inaudible but whose star-lit eyes said "Yes."

She had loved him for those arguments. Of course she couldn't agree. Why Rolf was earning $35 a week at the Atlas Advertising Agency and her own salary was $30. Rolf had a life insurance policy and boasted blithely of the $10.75 in his wallet—$3 of which he owed his roommate. With paper and pencils and a great many highly irrelevant interruptions they argued and added and subtracted—and arrived at Janet's original statement. There must be $500 in the bank!

It wasn't, she pointed out, what the $500 would buy; it was what it stood for. Janet knew quite a lot about poverty. She knew Daisy McCullough who had worked in the Every Home office until, gayly and irresponsibly, she had married—and been divorced six months later. She knew Mrs. Frisbie whose husband was an invalid and whose little girl couldn't see. She had known Joe Platz, too, well enough to grow a little faint when she read how they found his body in the river. Joe Platz had been buried the week before. Joe Platz had lost his job and couldn't free being a burden to his wife.

Yes, Janet knew enough of poverty so that all of Rolf's pleading couldn't win her from her insistence that they must work and save before they could be married. Five hundred dollars was the least possible figure. At first they had argued each other the $500 could be saved easily. In six months at the most! Rolf had made a budget of his $35 and showed Janet how to make one. Somehow at the end of the month the budget was there, laugh of woe. "They're had and wonderful times together but theatre tickets and dinners and gardenia for Janet's coat collar had more than taken the sum Rolf had set down under the heading, "Savings."

So there were more sessions with pencil and paper, more adding and subtracting. Out of all this had come further arguments and then, gradually, the savings accounts had begun to swell. Instead of theatre parties and fresh flowers and dancing at the Crystal Slipper there were long walks now and cafeteria meals and visits to the neighbourhood movie house where tickets cost only 15 cents.

Rolf chafed at all this—but always came around to agree the object was worth it. He was nearly as versed in economy as Janet. Some of the other girls in the Every Home office thought Janet had been growing just a little shabby. They nodded significantly and agreed that a girl had to keep up her looks; even if she was pretty she was a fool to neglect herself and anybody could tell that old black hat was last winter's. Fresh collar and cuff sets didn't conceal the fact that Janet wore the same black cruck almost every day.

If Janet Hill had heard these comments she would have laughed. How could anyone compare old hats and worn frocks with the glory of knowing that Rolf loved her?

The special reason she had wanted to leave the office at 12.30 that Saturday was because it was Rolf's birthday. He didn't know she was aware of this but what a celebration she had planned! Dinner, cooked on the two-burner gas stove by Janet herself. There would be a thick steak, mushrooms, creamed asparagus and salad with Roquefort dressing. The dessert had been made early that morning and was waiting in the ice chest. There would be flowers for the table and tall white candles. Janet would have to buy them at the dime store on her way home.

She had to shop, too, for the fountain pen and pencil which was to be her birthday gift to Rolf. Janet had decided that was what the gift should be three weeks ago when he had complained about losing his last pen. There was the shopping to do at the grocery store, too, the tidying up of the single room that, with the couch cover properly disguising the day bed, became a suitable place to receive callers. There were really a dozen demands on Janet's time that afternoon and there she was typing Bruce Hamilton's revised copy and his correspondence!

Howard Cressy had disappeared. Janet, intent on her work, was aware when her employer arose and left the office and that half an hour later he returned. That meant he had lunched. Hamilton drove all those who worked for him but he drove himself even more strenuously. He would probably remain at his desk through the afternoon.

"Finished?" He looked up and smiled as he laid the letters on his desk.

"All but the ones I'm adding."

"Haven't had lunch, have you?" Janet said that she had not. Her employer rested his arms on his desk.

"Leave the menu until Monday," Hamilton suggested. "It's only an hour's wait. You'll be in over time too much lately."

"I don't mind," Janet began, but the half-hearted offer was silenced. Hamilton was in one of those moods when he refused that those who worked with him were human beings instead of machines. At such times he was kindness and consideration itself.

"It's a fine afternoon," he said. "Take a walk—get out in the park—treat yourself to a real holiday!" She smiled and agreed, though of course she had no idea of doing any such thing. The birthday party for Rolf would give her more pleasure than any outing could.

Janet put paper and pencils away, closed her desk and drew the oil-cloth cover over her typewriter. A moment later, wearing the year-old felt hat, her coat over her arm, Janet paused in the doorway.

"Goodbye until Monday," he said, smiling.

Two minutes later she emerged through the street door into the early afternoon traffic. A fine afternoon it was, as Mr. Hamilton had said. Late February sunshine shone down warmly. Across the street where there had been a patch of snow the earth was moist now and dark. The wind, cool and refreshing, struck Janet's cheeks and brought a delicate surge of colour into the creamy whiteness. The girl drew a deep breath, swung into the procession heading east.

A block in the distance she could see the tower of the Security Building, the hands on its clock pointing to 40 minutes after one.

It had been nice of Mr. Hamilton to let her leave without finishing the memorandum. It gave her 20 minutes more than she had expected to have. Suddenly the thought of lunching at the corner drug store became distasteful. Janet knew the menu there on Saturdays: pea soup, the handwired "specials"—ham salad, pimiento cheese, and egg-and-lettuce—and two kinds of pie. Yes, indeed. She could recite every item on that menu. And the coffee was never served with real cream.

"I've time to go to Rooney's," she decided hastily. "It's after the noon rush and there'll be quick service. Besides it's on the way to Hayslip's."

Hayslip's Jewellery store was the oldest in Lancaster and carried the finest stock. It was at Hayslip's Janet had determined to buy the pen and pencil set for Rolf. It wasn't really an extravagance—or maybe it was—but surely it was justified! Rolf's present had to be the best. And inexpensive. The luxury of a quiet table and a few minutes' rest was too great a temptation to resist. So, instead of entering the drug store, Janet Hill turned at the corner.

It was a block that changed everything. Two blocks beyond—with the cafeteria only half a block further—was the Brewster Hotel. In Lancaster the Brewster had all the prestige of a Ritz-Carlton or a Mayflower. Janet had never crossed the threshold but frequently she had made reservations there for Mr. Hamilton. His wealthiest business associates stopped there when they came to Lancaster. Janet knew that the smartest luncheons and dinner parties, the ones described in the columns of the Gazette and the Times, were always at the Brewster.

"Meet me at the Brewster Coffee Shop," Mr. Hamilton would say usually in a telephone conversation. It would always be at least two hours before he returned from such a luncheon.

The Coffee Shop had a street entrance on the side of the building Janet was approaching. The name "Brewster Coffee Shop" was lettered neatly on a small glass sign that at night was illuminated. Janet, busy with her thoughts, was not a dozen yards from that sign when suddenly she looked up. Her heart seemed to be beating. She caught her breath.

A girl in a dark fur coat was entering the coffee shop. She was slender, rather small, and she wore a red hat. Very pretty the girl looked, very gay and charming. She had turned and was smiling up at her escort. The young man beside her was Rolf Carlyle.

LEGIONS READY

MUSSOLINI PLANS PLANE VISIT TO AFRICA

Rome, Aug. 16.—It is anticipated that Signor Mussolini will pay a lightning visit to Italian Somaliland and Eritrea by aeroplane at the end of August for the purpose of making speeches to the troops before they go into battle.

In addition to the seven army divisions already mobilized for colonial service, six divisions of the faithful Blackshirts have been called to the colours.

These are mostly men of ages from between 35 and 65, and include many business men, but all are militarily trained.

Theoretically they are volunteers, and they are leaving their wives and families resignedly, and with a sense of responsibility for Italy's future.

Flappers Paradise
In contrast to these elderly soldiers the regulars, between the ages of 21 and 24, inspired with a feeling of military adventure, strut about the streets, with a girl on either arm singing Fascist songs.

Italy at the present time is a "flappers paradise" for young men daily arriving from the towns, who want a good time. Most of them have money to spend and are spending it freely.

All this despite the fact that the former picturesque uniforms have been replaced by khaki, because Mussolini does not want the young troops to be puppets for the admiration of the ladies, but a practical fighting machine.

Altogether 200,000 have been called to colours since January for service in East Africa and more are expected to follow.

Since Mussolini became War Minister in 1925 the Italian Army has been intensively reorganized and enlarged, and is now 1,000,000 strong. Thirteen army corps have been specially trained for rapid movement in mountainous country with a view both to campaigning in Abyssinia and the defence of the Italian frontiers. They are equipped with new types of arms of all categories, including small tanks, trench mortars, and machine guns.

Italy's Leaders
Mussolini's right hand men in the Abyssinian enterprise are all well-tried Fascists, and include General DeBono, High Commissioner for East Africa, one of the famous Executives of Four, in the Fascist March to Rome in 1922; General Rodolfo Graziani, Italy's finest soldier and the most dreaded enemy of the Senussis in the Libyan campaigns.

Mussolini counts greatly on aeroplanes of which nearly 1,000 are expected to swoop down on Abyssinia, spreading destruction and terror.

At the Institute of tropical diseases, Dr. Sirodo Castellani, a Harley Street tropical specialist, and father-in-law of Sir Miles Lampson, is designing a new type of topee.

Twenty assistants stand in the sun with thermometers under their hats, to check the efficiency of the different designs.—Reuter.

after which the members of the delegations were entertained to luncheon by the French Premier. At a resumed meeting this evening what is understood to have been a fairly general discussion directed at obtaining in detail a statement in regard to Italian grievances and aspirations, was continued.

It would appear that the conversations have not progressed sufficiently far as yet to give grounds for pessimism or optimism. Discussions will continue, and the problem with which they are concerned is without doubt extremely difficult. But in the British view, shared it is believed, by the French, it is still possible by a dispassionate examination of all the elements in the situation to evolve a means whereby the grievances can be removed and legitimate aspirations and susceptibilities be reconciled, which at least offers an alternative preferable on every count to resort to war.

Certain constructive suggestions dealing, for instance, with economic concessions and measures to remove the Italian complaint that their East African colonies are liable to incursions from Abyssinia, remain to be examined.—British Wireless.
